EHS Mission Statement

It is a business priority to continuously improve our EHS systems to protect fellow employees, the environment, and our communities against environmental, health and safety hazards.

In order to achieve our mission, we must adhere to the following guidelines:

1. The Environment, Safety, and Health are shared responsibilities. Every employee must take ownership of his or her own health and safety and that of co-workers and visitors, as well as work to reduce the adverse impact on the surrounding environment.
2. Maintaining a safe and healthy work environment is a core value of the business.
3. Where hazards cannot be completely eliminated, they must be reduced through engineering or administrative controls or, as a final precaution, through the proper use of personal protective equipment.
4. Every employee will be trained to perform work safely. Any employee feeling inadequately trained to perform a certain procedure, will immediately discuss the problem with his or her supervisor.
5. It is everyone's job to spot hazards, report them immediately, and correct them where possible.
6. Each employee's safety depends upon his/her own safe conduct a well as those that work around him/her. Consistently following safety rules and procedures is required of everyone on the plant site.
7. Hazard exposure and radiation dose of all workers will be minimized in accordance with the ALARA, (As Low As Reasonably Achievable) principle.
8. We will work to eliminate where possible or limit to lowest practicable levels, adverse effects on the environment from our products, services, facilities, and activities.
9. We will implement programs and objectives, which consider product life cycles, to conserve natural resources, prevent pollution, and minimize waste.
10. We will comply with all applicable environmental, health and safety laws and regulations.
11. We recognize that our products and services will be used in nuclear facilities. Nuclear safety of the equipment, plant, environment, and public will be held with the highest regard.
